Beastuary

DECEMBER, 2011

Title: Dothages

Artist: Molly

Description: This endangered species is half dog and half sea serpent. Just like a sea serpent, it lives in the sea, but just like a dog, its head cannot go under water. The way it hides from its enemies is it lowers its head as close to the water as it can and reflects the sun just like the sea does. Sunny days are the only time it comes out of its hiding place which are the caves in the ocean's cliffs.

Title: Cheemal

Artist: Jonah

Description: This animal is the Cheemal, a combination of a camel, a sheep and a chicken. It is famous for being the only animal which has no ears. It lives in deserts which means it is widely used instead of sheep in farms in large deserts such as the Sahara. It can be dangerous, however, due to its tendency to spit at anyone who tries to shear it. Another danger is it often falls over because it has no ears and chicken legs and can't pick itself up. So people have to be careful when shearing it! All that falling over makes the wool quite dirty. It also can't survive long in farms colder than 80° Fahrenheit. All in all it is very useful in deserts, where it is common, but is very rare anywhere else.

Title: Blue Dragon

Artist: Charlotte

Description: The Blue Dragon is just a dragon that is blue. They are easy to find just like any other color of dragon. They, unlike other dragons, have a sharp point at the tip of their tail, as you can see above.

Title: Dragon

Artist: Charlotte

Description: This is just a plain old dragon. They come in many colors. This dragon is very rare—it is rainbow. The ball on the end of its tail is venomous and if it touches you, you will instantly die.

Title: Santa Claws

Artist: Hunter
